April 11, 2016

Tips for Those Who Want to Graduate to Lower Numbered Realms

God sees everything you do. He knows everything about you and He always has. In late summer 2009, when I spoke to a group of Greys (seniors and juniors), I showed them how to dowse and challenged them to try to “stump God” with dowsed questions. They could not. If a race that is 30,000 years-old could not stump God with advanced questions, I think we can conclude that He knows everything there is to know about artificials who are 13,000 years-old (the 13,000 year-old family I’ve described in http://articles.x10.mx/family.html has created a nightmare on Earth and they have been a corrupting influence).

Graduates:
1. Are impeccably clean and neat (re: personal hygiene, personal living space as well as shared kitchen and bathroom). Dowse the questions: “Is my personal hygiene ok?” and “Is my living space clean?” “Am I clean in the bathroom?” “Am I clean in the kitchen?”

2. Pitch in and clean up after themselves.

3. Dowse every decision including prices for goods, services and rent (I dowse every paragraph I write -- even in e-mail). Note: Decisions about sleeping location, space for personal belongings, turning on TV, music, lights, air-conditioner, or heat need to be dowsed. Upper numbered realms will be more crowded than lower numbered realms. Doors will need to be added to laundry areas and kitchens to block light and sound. Headphones (or ear buds) will be needed for television or music.

4. Are not rigid about health-related decisions (e.g. nutrition and parasites). Malnutrition (e.g. Vitamin B12 deficiency and Iodine deficiency can cause mental problems or thyroid deficiency that causes physical problems e.g. feeling cold). Dowse the questions: “Am I malnourished?” and “Do I have parasites?”

5. Seek to see a situation from another’s point-of-view (and share). Graduates check on the status of relatives and neighbors. If Sean Penn travels to Haiti (where he spends 50% of his time), other Sirians can pay attention to others close-by. See: http://tmagazine.blogs.nytimes.com/2011/03/25/the-accidental-activist/?_r=0

Also: Nelly Odessa’s 99 Unspoken Rules of Social Etiquette: Are You Rude And Don’t Even Know It? and Cynthia Lett’s Modern Civility: Etiquette for Dealing With Annoying, Angry and Difficult People (Note: annoying, angry and difficult people will probably not graduate).

If necessary, share the cost of a coach who has carefully read and studied the content of these pages, and books (dowse if the coach is a correct choice, the maximum number of people per class and the fee).
Consequences For Not Seeking to Graduate
People who are lazy, rigid, selfish, or immature will be left behind. As graduates leave, they will find themselves living with other clones who are lazy, rigid, selfish and immature.

Mature people will automatically be candidates for graduation. Dowse your maturity level by asking the question, “On a scale from 1 to 10, how mature am I?” Note: Sirians without original God-created genetics are not even on the scale. Bots (from other race groups) are a “2.” Majors and Minors with a percentage of original God-created genetics are a “3.” Maturity levels can improve (sometimes at a very fast pace). Greys were “9” in 2011 and 60% are now at a maturity level of 20.